1994 B.F.A. in Sculpture, Virginia Commonwealth University

LEADERSHIP EXPERIENCE

FA2024 AREA HEAD, FOUNDATIONS (appointed by Director)
Penn State School of Visual Arts
The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA

My role as Area Head was requested by the Director to provide leadership and mentorship to our Foundations instructors, all of which are tenure track, fixed term, or adjunct faculty. My role spans between the managerial and visionary. I oversee the budget and purchase supplies for all nine courses, organize meetings to discuss awards and scholarships. Other duties include implementing facility upgrades with donor funds, leading meetings to empower new faculty to revamp our current curriculum that aligns with the Director's vision and University Strategic Plan.

SP20-SP23 AREA HEAD, SCULPTURE (appointed by Director)
Penn State School of Visual Arts
The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA

Duties expected include: oversee budget for 12-14 courses per academic year; communication point between multiple faculty (full contract, multi contract, contingent and graduate teaching stipend) and 6-10 BFA, 2-4 MFA students; coordinate benchmark reviews for undergraduate and graduate sculpture majors (Midterm, Final, Candidacy), supervise entrance interviews for major; oversee facilities and equipment; continue to advocate for upgrades and general improvements to sculpture studios and teaching facilities.

SP18-FA19 AREA HEAD, FOUNDATIONS (appointed by Director)
Penn State School of Visual Arts
The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA

When asked to take the lead for Foundations in Fall 2018 (to provide leadership in the absence of two sabbatical appointments), it was my goal to make beneficial change with the collaborative input of my fellow colleagues. Coming from a different Area provided a unique opportunity to advocate objectively for my co-workers, bringing a renewed and urgent awareness on struggles this important Area faces.

300 AART/PMAJ/NMAJ enrolled; 14 classes offered, communication point between seven faculty (3 core, 4 contingent); organized two, large scale public exhibitions of student work to increase visibility in the college and improve recruitment through the major; Completed a year-long, nationwide assessment benchmarking Foundation's square footage per student ratio, curricular design and budget allocation to other big ten and aspirational schools; increased the budget 300%; advocated in public presentations with data-driven metrics to get momentum on overdue initiatives to improve facilities; worked with foundation faculty to create a new program design and expanded footprint plan.

2008-2017 AREA HEAD, SCULPTURE (appointed by Director)
Penn State School of Visual Arts
The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA

Upon my appointment in Fall 2008, I established a new budget structure to increase equity and transparency to all sculpture related instructors, positioning the budget as curricular discussion tool for all. Co-advocated for the addition of a new tech room housing CAD software for digital courses; managed the budget effectively to fund new critique space walls, partition walls in BFA studios, steel framed worktables, and a full-page ad in Sculpture magazine to boost MFA recruitment. Worked with Office of the Physical Plant to install new track lighting, increased electrical amperage, install a new garage door and flammable cabinets at no cost to the Area. Communication point between 5-7 faculty (full contract, multi contract, contingent and graduate teaching stipend), 10 BFA and 4-6 MFA students. Coordinate benchmark reviews for undergraduate and graduate sculpture majors (Midterm, Final, Candidacy). Supervised entrance interview to major. Continue to advocate for upgrades and general improvements to sculpture studios and teaching facilities, a space that serves approximately 60–70 enrolled students per semester. Note: appointed Area Head in F2008, SP2009, F2009, SP2010, F2010, SP2011, F2012, SP2013, F2014, F2015, SP16 Appointed Co Area Head in F2016, SP2017, F2018, SP2018.

2012-2013 PROFESSOR IN CHARGE, STUDIO FACULTY (elected by Studio faculty)
Studio Program, Penn State School of Visual Arts
The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA

During my PIC tenure, I helped negotiate Graphic Design back into SoVA's MFA program, and took responsibility for getting the School of Visual Arts compliant with Environmental Health and Safety protocols, strict requirements that came to our School's attention during my PIC timetable. I helped implement the Integrated Safety Plan for SoVA, which insured our School could be well positioned for indemnification, something that benefits our school's overall budget. Perhaps the most monumental task during my service as PIC was getting six studio areas of SoVA compliant with CHIMS- Chemical Inventory Management System, inventorying hundreds of hazard-based materials on behalf of 20+ faculty within the required deadline.

COURSES PROPOSED | in progress

The Pennsylvania State University

Fall 2018 Together, Tacit

Together, Tacit was a course proposed as part of a University Strategic Initiative Grant Proposal entitled SOFTLAB@PSU. This was led by Principal Investigator Felecia Ann Davis, Associate Professor in Architecture at Penn State. I served with her as one of five Co-Principal Investigators in support of developing an interdisciplinary computational or smart textile prototyping lab (SOFTLAB@PSU) that can be used for Penn State campuses and the Penn State Community. Other collaborators included Melik Demirel, Professor of Engineering Sciences and Mechanics; Jose Duarte, Professor, Architecture and Landscape Architecture; Mark Miller, Assistant Professor, Department of Landscape Architecture; and Doug Warner, Professor Department of Electrical Engineering and Materials Research Institute. My contribution ensured “the lab is publicized and run by artists and will use the industrial knitting machine and technician to Foster and Embrace a Diverse World” through a proposed course entitled Together, Tacit for members of the Sight Loss Support Group of Central PA, Penn State students and faculty. Together, Tacit proposes to use the industrial knitting machine to make glove like forms that will be sculptural drawing tools for visually impaired people to make body movements. These movements would be translations of what the visually impaired participants would imagine a sculptural form may look like. These movements would be translated into marks that computational/fine art students could use as a guide to the outcome of the workshop collaborations would be exhibited publicly in a University or local gallery. This project flow flips the directionality of touch me museums, where sight impaired persons handle what others initiated and created. In Together, Tacit, the objects that are made could not be possible without the creative vision from the sight impaired, establishing their hands and eyes as the fulcrum point for the final work.

COURSES DEVELOPED | completed

The Pennsylvania State University

2021 Building with Fabric

In this hand on studio class, students will become knowledgeable of the historic and contemporary ways that textiles (such as sewing, quilting, knotting, weaving) have been used to build form and community within social and political practices. Utilizing aspects from traditional piece work to contemporary craftivism, students will study and work with the tactile nature of cloth to create projects that range from the intimate to the multi genre. Through projects, readings and tutorials, the goal of this course is to introduce students to the inspired legacy of needlecraft as they build outcomes in unconventional ways.

2016 The Body: Issues and Objects

This course is designed to familiarize students with various approaches and interpretations of the body in contemporary art, focusing on several creators who incorporate figurative and bodily systems of exchange within a diverse and multi-tiered approach to body, persona, and politic. We look at how constructs of the body are viewed through advertising, psychology, politics, collectives, performance, and media manufacturing. This is a 400- level class that undergraduate and graduate students can enroll in.

2015 Breakaway

Breakaway is a professional practice course that has five (5) components titled: Rotational, Communicate You, Breakaway Context, Breakaway Studio and I.C.E.(in class exercises). Collectively, their aim is to provide compass forming tools to establish empowerment and lay groundwork for informed risk-taking. These components are not introduced and concluded as linear chapters in a book (such as academic project 1, followed by academic project 2). Rather, they interweave throughout the entire semester offering students a real world approach in how artists juggle the completion of unknowable new work/research while in the midst of engaging in community/professional practice metrics to expand the reach of their already completed/contextualized work. This is a 400-level class that undergraduate and graduate students can enroll in.

2012 Flexible Molds: Parting Seams+ Sculptural Concepts

This course offers students technical information on how to make one, two, and three-part flexible molds in urethane and silicone compounds to be cast in concept relevant materials. While the mold making design applications delivered are consistent for all members of the class, the casting results expected from a professionally designed flexible mold are to reflect each student's individual artistic strengths. This is a 400-level class that undergraduate and graduate students can enroll in.

2009 Digital Hand, co-developed with Assistant Professor Del Harrow

Digital Hand introduces students to digital methods of building in tandem with legacy building techniques. When used together, an outcome is created that is not limited to the parameters by analog or digital, but rather enhanced by the properties of both. In this class, students learn several CAD software applications. In addition to using software, students will learn how to export files made in these programs onto CAD specific hardware. Students are asked to use these digital building tools and incorporate them with conceptually relevant analog material choices, culminating in a work which has been informed by a dual skill to push an artwork's spatial parameters. This was a 300-level class that undergraduates could enroll in.

- 2023 CO-ORGANIZATION OF PUBLIC EXHIBITION, "BLOOD, SWEAT, AND STEEL"
 ART 330, Metal Fabrication and Mixed Media, co taught with Assistant Professor Matthew J. Olson.
 "Blood, Sweat, and Steel" was a public exhibition showcasing outdoor works made from the final project prompt: Outta Site, Connectivity. installed in the Patterson Gallery from April 18-15 as well as corresponding outdoor installations on campus. It included show posters, exhibition cards and a site map where outdoor works could be located across campus.
https://www.psu.edu/news/arts-and-architecture/story/metal-and-mixed-media-student-artwork-display-across-university-park/?utm_audience=Faculty&utm_source=newswire&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=Penn%20State%20Today&utm_content=04-18-2023-19-55&utm_term=Academics%20-%201
- 2021 PSU SCU ALUMNI MENTORSHIP
 To help support Sculpture BFA's during a distanced semester due to the pandemic, I initiated and developed an alumni mentorship program linking a current Sculpture BFA to an PSU SCU alum. This will provide an opportunity for students to get in- depth feedback about their work from a dedicated artist who has walked the very same studio floor they walk on. Mentor-mentees exchanges also help build a sense of community, especially during a semester when it is difficult for many people to together in-person. Mentors and Mentees meet at the start of the semester in a collective "meet and greet" zoom. Through the semester, mentors and mentee pairs are advised to connect via zoom for two, 30-60 minutes studio visits.

- 2020 WEDNESDAY NIGHT PROGRAM
 To increase moral during covid and supplement Sculpture's online classes during the Fall 20 semester, I initiated and co-developed a "Wednesday Night Visiting Artist Program" for the Sculpture Area where Visiting Artists were invited to speak about their work Sculpture's Wednesday Night Program included talks by:
 Becky Reiser " At An Intersection of Art, Activism, + Motherhood" Wednesday, September 9 2020 6:30-7:30 PM (EST) zoom
 Steve Shane: " A Conversation with Collector Steve Shane" Wednesday, September 23 2020 6:30-8:00 PM (EST) zoom
 Rachel Owens " Rachel Owens" Wednesday, October 14 2020 6:30-7:30PM (EST) zoom
 Sidney Mullis " Sidney Mullis" Wednesday, October 21 2020 1:00-2:00 (EST) zoom
- 2019 PUBLIC EXHIBITION- "BORN TO BUILD"
 To increase awareness and visibility on the hard work that the Sculpture Foundation classes do within very little space, I schedule, initiated, installed, and deinstalled a student group show in the Patterson Gallery featuring Art 111 class to be on view to the School and College during April, Spring 2019.
- PUBLIC EXHIBITION- "PUSH IT TO THE LIMIT"
 As Foundation Area Head (F18, SP19, F19), I organized and coordinated the F19 Exhibition: PUSH IT TO THE LIMIT, which showcased SoVA's Foundation's Art 110 and Art 111 work. This was a coordination task between 6 faculty and 7 sections of course work and included the installation and deinstallation of over 100 artworks.
- 2018 PUBLIC EXHIBITION- "SIGNED, STEELED, DELIVERED"
 ART 330, Metal Fabrication and Mixed Media, co taught with Assistant Professor Matthew J. Olson.
"Signed, Steeled, Delivered" was a public exhibition showcasing outdoor works made from the final project prompt: Outta Site, Connectivity. In this project, students were asked to locate a site relevant node that an ambitious work would be created in response to. It was required that the project incorporate steel to allow the installation and deinstall to happen with design precision. Drawings citing the proposed piece, dimensions, location, display type, duration and approaches to site restoration were done by the students in accordance to OPP proposal requirements. Many of the terms needed for the proposal requirements were new to the students, and many had never submitted a formal proposal to an external committee. This show was covered in several social media outlets and written about in the Daily Collegian:
https://www.collegian.psu.edu/arts_and_entertainment/article_81e1a188-4246-11e8-bd7d-170df2187916.html

- 2017,
2018 DGC: DISTINGUISHED GUEST CRITICS
In Breakaway (a professional practice/studio course I developed), students are asked to create one (1) ambitious studio-based work/body of work, whose culmination manifests at the end of the semester. This stand out work should use two early class exercises to instigate a disruption in their comfortable approach to making. To help motivate and push progress through the entire semester, the course approaches critiquing in a variety of ways. A benchmark critique is called Distinguished Guest Critics, where I invite several external review members to function as two separate panels to critique each student's Breakaway Studio work. The people chosen are not working with the students in other art classes and in many cases, are not familiar with the students work as all. In the DGC, it is expected that each student installs their work as professionally as possible in Sculpture's critique spaces, embodies the difficult task of speaking in a succinct and an accessible way to the panel to introduce what their work is about and how their approach "breaks" away from some aspect of their familiar ideation. Each panel speaks about the students work for about 20 minutes, and then moved on to the next artist's work. I introduce panel members by their professional bios and get refreshments. It's fun.
- 2018,
2016 COORDINATION VISITING ARTIST, SHARON LOUDEN
Sharon Loudon, Artist, Curator and Editor of the book: Living & Sustaining A Creative Life: Essays by 40 Working Artists skyped with my Breakaway students. This book is one of two course texts for the class. They met with Sharon in week 10 and asked her questions about life as a professional artist, questions pertaining to essays in the book, and her advice on how to build an art practice that can withstand multiple types of differentiation (artistic, financial, geographic, political).
- 2018 COORDINATION OF VISITING CURATOR + AUTHOR
Heather Darcy Bhandari, Visiting Curator and co Author of ART/WORK: Everything You Need to Know \(and DO\) to Pursue an Art Career came to speak to my ART 497 Breakaway students. Heather is a PSU Painting MFA Alum, and someone I have known from the contemporary art world for 18 years. Her text is the second of two required texts in Breakaway.
- 2018 COORDINATION OF PHOTO WORKSHOP WITH SIDNEY MULLIS
During the 10th week of the semester, Sidney Mullis taught a six- hour photo documentation workshop with my Breakaway students on a Saturday (10:00-4:00) to help students learn how to use the settings in their cameras better and how to address lighting their paintings or sculptures. Students were encouraged to have work installed in Sculpture's galleries, so Sidney could use actual work to teach from. This was needed to help them create more professional looking application to external venues (artist residencies, juried exhibition, etc.). All attended this- wow.
- 2017 COORDINATION OF WORKSHOP WITH POLYTEK, FLEXIBLE MOLDS CLASS| *
Flexible Molds: Parting Seams + Sculptural Concepts teaches students how to make industry standard, multiple part flexible molds out of urethane rubber. I have begun a partnership with representatives of the Polytek Corporation, to give Flexible Mold students 25% discount on any product they sell with free shipping to Penn State. This can continue throughout the entire semester for students who are enrolled in Flexible Molds. In addition, representatives drive to Penn State and visit Flexible Molds, free of charge to show students various casting applications. When they come, they bring a lot of polymer and casting materials that have already been opened in the Polytek plant. Since they cannot sell it if it has been opened, they donate these materials to our students. We get so many expensive materials this way- it is so generous and amazing! As a class, we send them a thank you card, a gift card for coffee and send images of the work we have made with Polytek's products. *This also occurred in 2015, 2013 and 2011.
- 2016 PUBLIC EXHIBITION, "ART WORTH STEELING"
ART 330, Metal Fabrication and Mixed Media, co taught with Assistant Professor Matthew J. Olson.
"Art Worth Steeling" was a public exhibition showcasing outdoor works made from the final project prompt: Outta Site.

Connectivity. A public exhibition was installed in the Patterson Gallery from April 18-22 as well as corresponding outdoor installations on campus resulting in 9 installed projects. It included show posters, exhibition cards and a site map where outdoor works could be located across campus.

2015 COORDINATION OF FIELD TRIP, NEW YORK CITY

Fall 15's Advanced Sculpture class included a field trip to NYC to see art exhibitions and meet with three different people who are dedicated to the contemporary art scene in New York in different types of ways. This trip was optional and held on a Saturday, to ensure students did not miss other classes. I organize visits to Tony Matelli's studio in Long Island City, a trip to PS1 Moma in Long Island City, a visit to contemporary art collector, Steve Shane's home, and a visit with Mixed Greens gallery director, Heather Darcy Bhandari. Tony Matelli is a very well-known contemporary sculptor who has a stand-alone studio in Long Island city and employs approximately 4-25 assistants per year. He spoke of what he needs to do as a professional artist to maintain both his creativity, financial responsibilities and professional deadlines. Steve invited us all into his Chelsea penthouse and described his collection based on three themes. Heather spoke to her history working with galleries and what she looks for in an artist as a gallery director. All of these people did these visits pro bono, as a personal favor to me as I have known them for years in a professional context in the contemporary art world. Four PSU Sculpture Alums joined on trip as well.

2015 ORGANIZATION OF VISITING ARTIST, TYLER MATTHEW OYER

PSU Sculpture Alum, Tyler Matthew Oyer came to speak to my class The Body: Issues and Objects on Thursday, October 8th at 12:00 in 102 Borland in a lecture entitled "Pining, Mining, Defining, Denying". He also did studio visits with my Advanced Sculpture BFA and MFA students. Oyer is represented by Cirrus Gallery and his work is in the permanent collection of the Museum of Modern Art (NY). Oyer is the founder of tir journal, an online platform for queer and feminist voices. He received an MFA from the California Institute of the Arts in 2012.

2015 CO-ORGANIZATION OF PUBLIC EXHIBITION, "STEEL, THE SHOW"

ART 330, Metal Fabrication and Mixed Media, co taught with Assistant Professor Matthew J. Olson.

"Steel, the Show" was a public exhibition showcasing outdoor works made from the final project prompt: Outta Site. Connectivity. installed in the Patterson Gallery from April 20-25 as well as corresponding outdoor installations on campus. It included show posters, exhibition cards and a site map where outdoor works could be located across campus.

2013 COORDINATION OF FIELD TRIP, PITTSBURGH

Insistent that students extend out\ beyond Penn State's borders, I took my Bodies: Issues and Objects on a class field trip to Pittsburgh. We went to the Mattress Factory, saw a show by Janine Antoni and attended several gallery exhibitions. One of these shows included a light-based installation that asked for a signed consent form to enter. I and some other students opted not to enter this exhibit. Unfortunately, MFA Sculpture student had a seizure while viewing this, fell to the ground and hit his head severely. I, along with another MFA Sculpture, spent the rest of the day in the emergency room making sure he was okay while a third Sculpture MFA took the rest of the students to the events on the itinerary. Thankfully, Evan was determined to be okay and we all made it back to Happy Valley in one piece.

2012 COORDINATION OF FIELD TRIP, NEW YORK CITY

My Fall 2012 Advanced Sculpture class offered an optional Saturday field trip to NYC to visit sculptor Robert Lazzarini's studio in Long Island City as he and his assistants were working towards a large solo exhibition at Marlborough gallery in Manhattan, NYC. After this visit, two vans would drive from Brooklyn to Manhattan, so students could visit galleries and exhibitions.

2011 PUBLIC EXHIBITION- "ANYBODY/EVERYBODY"

ART 338 The Body: Issues and Objects presented AnyBody/Everybody, a group exhibition featuring the work of Liz Fontaine, Lindsey Hayakawa, Katie Hopkins, Katelyn Monahan, Jill O'Brien, Jeff Repko, Maddie Tyska, and Taylor Watkins. As an end to our Fall 2011 course schedule, this exhibition explores notions of what it means to be human in contemporary times. Each artist, in their own way, is addressing the body through various lenses—the politic, landscape, particulate, part, sensate, parade, and parody.

2011 COORDINATION OF VISITING ARCHITECT, BRENNAN BUCK

Principal architect, Brennan Buck of Free Land Buck, gave a scripting workshop with Grasshopper (Rhino plug-in) to SoVA/SALA students. Sculpture's Digital Hand students participated in the workshop and used the knowledge in their class project ideas. Brennan also worked with School of Architecture/Landscape Architecture students to fabricate a pavilion, called "The Flat Duck". Mr. Buck gave studio visits with Digital Hand and Sculpture students as part of the invitation David Celento, Professor of Architecture (principal investigator) Sean Burkholder, Assistant Professor in Landscape Architecture (co- principal investigator) and I (co- principal investigator) put forth from our awarded 2010-2011 Stuckeman Endowment for Digital Computing grant.

2008 COORDINATION OF VISITING ARTIST/PROFESSOR RONALD JONES

Ronald Jones was one of my mentors from my graduate studies and was already scheduled to visit Penn State in September 2008 for the International Designs on E- Learning conference. He asked to do separate lecture, titled " Soft Power and the Information Culture" on September 8 specifically in the Sculpture area, at no cost. This lecture was held during my Advanced Sculpture class, yet all members of the SoVA community were invited. This is due exclusively to the contact he has with me as one of his former students; Ron Jones:

2007-

2020 COORDINATION OF MID TERM CRITIQUES

Mid Term Critiques are a Sculpture Area requirement, irrespective of the classes that Sculpture majors may be enrolled in. They typically are held day on a Friday and Fall on week 7 or 8. During Mid Term Critiques, BFA and MFA students are required to attend and show one work they have made thus far during the semester for critique. Each BFA crit lasts approximately 15 minutes and each MFA critique lasts approximately 30 minutes. All students are expected to be present and participate in giving feedback to their peers. I have coordinated Mid Terms every semester I have been appointed Area Head of Sculpture: Note: appointed Area Head in F2008, SP2009, F2009, SP2010, F2010, SP2011, F2012, SP2013, F2014, F2015, SP16 Appointed Co Area Head in F2016, SP2017, F2018, SP2018.

RECENT OUTREACH BASED INSTRUCTION | non-credit courses/workshops

"Haptic Narratives"

Clovernook School for the Blind & Visually Impaired; Cincinnati, Ohio

September 2023

Instructor; Facilitator

"Haptic Narratives" is a creative thinking and making workshop that folds into the "Together, Tacit" project, which aims to inspire creative collaboration among low vision, blind, and sighted individuals. Participants who attend can expect to discuss how low vision, blind, and sighted people create form using tangible and virtual material. Through discussion and action, participants will experience new ways to consider how visual thinking, and haptic learning, occurs. People should expect to participate in a series of exercises that utilize textiles, found objects, oil based clay, wire, and scribing/sculpting tools. The workshop will be presented in two, three hour sessions. Short breaks will occur during each session with a larger break for lunch between the morning and afternoon. During the afternoon session, participants will have the opportunity to sculpt in virtual space, using a virtual reality haptic glove developed by Professor Collura and engineering students at Penn State University. The sculptures that get created in virtual reality will be 3D printed and delivered to Clovernook during a follow up gathering. Participants will get a kit of art supplies to use in the workshop and for a follow-up art assignment.

Hallwalls Contemporary Art Center; Buffalo, New York

March 2022 Presenter

'Hallwalls will host a private walkthrough and artist's talk with exhibiting artist BONNIE COLLURA on the morning of Saturday, March 19 at 10am. Collura will discuss her artwork and process with teachers and will provide a free lesson plan for use in your future classes. Currently a Professor of Art at Penn State University, in 2021 Collura was the recipient of the prestigious Outstanding Educator Award from the International Sculpture Center. Her exhibition is on view through April 29th, 2022"

Penn State School of Visual Arts; Penn State Department of Mechanical Engineering

November 2020 Instructor; Facilitator

I was approached by Professor Zoubeida Ounaies; Director, Penn State Convergence Center for Multifunctional Material Systems, to see if I could advise capstone students on how to make a silicone cast of a face. A team of students is working on a capstone project with the medical industry to produce facial fixtures to help prevent the spread of covid-19 (details protected under a NDA). My role was to teach students how to make a silicone mold of a head to create a silicone face cast that Tegaderm tape could adhere to when filtration testing.

Visual Arts at the Chautauqua Institution, Chautauqua, New York

June -July 2017 Resident Artist

While in residence, I led a seminar based class with sculpture students and did studio visits with the students at large (painting, sculpture, printmaking). During my residency, I finished a three part sculpture in the private studio they provided. This piece was in preparation for a solo show entitled "Patchwork" which was poised to open at Kustera Projects, New York in September 2017. On July 4, I gave a public talk about my work at the Hultquist Center for the students and Chautauqua residents.

The New Center for Art at William Patterson University, Patterson, New Jersey

May 2016 Resident Artist

I was invited by Michael Rees, Director, The New Center for Arts (Power Arts) at William Patterson University to create work with their CNC machine. Using Power Art's CAD based software and hardware, I created nine 2 inch x 24 inch x 24 inch polystyrene tiles that had dense textures inspired by textiles or quilt patterns milled into them. Post mill, I used the foam units to show graduate students how to mold relatively simple shapes in silicone rubber using accelerators and reinforcement mesh to create durable, yet thin walled skins. This approach negates the "pour to the top" method and extends the high cost material. From these thin walled flexible silicone molds, several casts were made in hydro stone and oil based clay that I later clad over sculptures.

- 2018 Dani Spewak, B.F.A., Sculpture
3 credit ART 496 in F18 to intern in my studio as I prepare for my solo show at Smack Mellon. Dani wished to build work in an off-campus studio setting and see the various things that need to occur to make work visible to the public. This not only includes physically building work, but being in touch with curators, reviewers, press outlets and gallery preparators.

- 2017 Madeline Walker, B.F.A., Sculpture
Philadelphia Museum of Art 2017 Museum Studies Internship Program via ART 496. (June 5- August 4, 2017)

- 2012 Elizabeth Fontaine, B.F.A., Sculpture
Liz took a 7 credit internship with me in summer, 2012. She worked in my sculpture studio located In Bellefonte, PA. During this intensive studio making period we build the foundation layers for Armor for White Light, a 10 layer wearable garment that is made from a decade of drawings. The movements made in this piece from my body generate would create a companion video, so the sewing and design of this form needed to withstand hours of use. Liz is very knowledgeable about patterning garments and helped tremendously with this task.
- 2009 Jessica Rommelt, B.F.A., Sculpture
Jessie interned for the Diana Al-Hadid Studio in Brooklyn, New York in the summer. I was the faculty sponsor for this internship, as Ms. Al-Hadid was a visiting artist that the Sculpture Area hosted in the Fall, 2009, and is also former VCU graduate student whose work I became familiar with when I was a Visiting Instructor (VCU Sculpture) at the same time.

- 2020 Penn State News: "Engineer Students draw inspiration from art to test Covid-19 bio device: Senior Capstone Team partners with professor of sculpture..."
<https://www.psu.edu/news/academics/story/engineering-students-draw-inspiration-art-test-covid-19-biodevice/>
"Intrigued by the project and the students' enthusiasm, Collura became an unofficial but trusted adviser for the team throughout the semester. While the end result was a biomedical testing product, the students described her materials expertise and perspective as an artist as transformational. I see a lot of similarities between art and engineering. You can be really creative, which isn't talked about as much in engineering," Litzinger said. "People only think about dealing with math and physics."
- 2018 Collegian Article: "'Signed, Steeled, Delivered' exhibition scatters Penn State Campus with steel constructs"
"Our professors, Matt Olson and Bonnie Collura, are phenomenal and really went the extra mile to offer us this chance," Maines (senior-English, art education and sculpture) said. Delivery Mode: On Campus

- 2017 Interview with Sculpture BFA Alum, Michael Grasso (a.k.a. Jazzmint Dash)
"Jazzmint Dash: I'm currently in undergrad at Penn State. I'm a fourth year, and I just applied to grad school. I came to Penn State with the intention of doing International Politics and it totally wasn't for me. I had not taken any art classes or any kind of studio classes until my sophomore year when I had a class with Bonnie Collura who just is an icon. I can't ever say enough positive things about the educational influence she's had on both my studio practice and me as a person and my work ethic and my motivation to try and make a life for myself in this industry. So, I took one class with her and she was like, "You should really consider applying for the BFA program."
- 2017 Interview with Helen Maser, Sculpture BFA Alum, Valley Magazine
"One professor in the visual arts program that has helped Helen grow into the artist she is today is Bonnie Collura. During every conversation that she has with Collura, Helen says that she can feel herself learning and growing. "She cares so much about her students. She is unlike any educator that I've had," says Helen."

- 2016 PSU News article : Undergraduate Researcher Uses Honeybees to Probe Gender Roles
"Christina has always been a hard worker, yet I feel this project propelled a new approach to focus and risk in her creative workflow," said Bonnie Collura, faculty mentor to Dietz throughout her project. "To translate her idea in both 3D and 4D space, Christina needed to take on the responsibilities of fabricator, film director, prop builder, scenic designer, and budget manager. To get her project done on time and to a standard that she held herself accountable to, Christina simultaneously embodied creative discovery and deft direction. This is an extraordinarily difficult thing to do; it was inspiring to watch her take on so much with such aplomb.". September 20, 2016
